

- Radio Silence -
Call for Audio Projects

Québec, August 19, 2019 - Folie/Culture invites all those who express themselves through music, poetry, performance, deglutition, car burnouts and all other potential audio works to contribute to the Radio Silence call for projects.

As part of our current theme Walk on Eggshells!, Folie/Culture is looking for audio proposals that combine the injunction and the exemplary—intrinsic to our repressive societies—with audio art.

As Barthes stated in his book Mythologies (1957), advertising and slogans possess the organized ability to communicate something while being of no arbitrariness, no conditionality—the same as a truth. Thus, Radio Silence will occupy the radio advertising space of the program Québec réveille on CKIA 88.3 FM for 25 seconds, risking—perhaps—to break the flow of “meaning overload” inherent to advertising messages.

These audio segments, broadcasted live during advertising and available as podcasts on the Internet, will allow us to question society’s injunction to the exemplary, to the docile. So, let’s ask ourselves this: how does the monstrous express itself when it is usually muzzled?

To participate, you need to submit an audio work in mp3 or wav format exactly 25 seconds long

Artist’s fee: $200
Deadline: September 22, 2019

Send your audio project, along with your contact information, by e-mail to programmation@folieculture.org using a Dropbox or WeTransfer link.

Folie/Culture is a non-profit organization whose objective, on the one hand, is to raise awareness about mental health and, on the other hand, to carry out interdisciplinary art projects—and more precisely, to work towards the confluence of these two aspects.
